

From Too Fabulous to Fail

By Don Zolidis

CARLY, 20s.

She is in prison on the phone with the guy she's obsessed with.

CARLY

Hi Spencer. No wait don't hang up! Funny story. I've actually been arrested for embezzlement and a couple of other things. I don't remember what all the charges were – but there were a few of them... oh you heard? I was actually going to give you your old job back as soon – I'm so happy for you! You have your old job back! That's great! Look – there hasn't been anyone more in your corner than me, this whole time. I live in your corner. I love your corner. So... anyway... I'm in jail right now... I know, right? Cra-zy! Oh man it's awful here! I'm going to get assaulted any second. And that's just the guards! And there isn't good soap in the showers or anything – jail is no fun! Sooooo I was wondering... since you're out of jail and I'm in jail... maybe you could come over here and bail me out. It would be so fun! Okay. Um... well... maybe next time then. I'll probably be fine. Don't worry about me. We've already done one dance number, so I'm thinking we're all cool now. Yeah. Yeah. So how are things?

To read the rest of this play, visit www.playscripts.com